W-TECHNOLOGY LINK INCREASES ITS INVESTMENT FOCUS IN ELECTRICAL CONNECTIVITY WITH A STRATEGIC ADD-ON ACQUISITION

HOUSTON, TX November 6, 2017 - W-Technology Link, a portfolio company of Hamilton Robinson Capital Partners, has acquired the assets of NEB Products, LLC. Based in Houston, TX, NEB Products is a designer and manufacturer of molded connectors for the oil & gas, commercial marine, municipalities and other industrial markets.

"I am very excited about NEB Products joining the W-Technology Link team. The combination of NEB and W-Technology Link represents a major step forward. We look forward to advancing our capabilities to better service our customers' short term and longer term plans for growth" said Neil Broesche, founder of NEB Products.

Brandon Richter, Managing Director at Hamilton Robinson stated, "NEB products is a significant strategic move for W-Technology Link, highlighting Hamilton Robinson's success in growing niche industrial companies. Electrical connectors are a cornerstone of systems serving critical applications and the acquisition of NEB products will further position W-Technology Link as a major player in oil & gas and other markets."

"NEB Products has built a great team with exceptional capabilities and possesses a customer centric culture that is consistent with ours. The acquisition strengthens our position in severe service connectors with the addition of injection molded technology and provides for a market position in other industrial markets, all key growth areas for W-Technology Link. The NEB brand has an excellent reputation in our markets and will continue; also all NEB Products employees will be joining the company." said Bob Funk, CEO, W-Technology Link.
